Jolted cow ice cream insomnia cookies

The new cookie bakery has played its first game in town. Located at 362 Kearny Street in the financial district, a fresh addition called The Insomnia Cookie. This is San Francisco's first place of sleepless cookies, a late-night cookie bakery that made its start on a college campus in Pennsylvania in 2003. Sleepless cookies have since spread to more than 100 shops across the country, offering up hot, freshly baked cookies until wee hours of the morning. Check out one of the traditional sleepless cookies, such as chocolate flakes or snickerdoodle, or try one of the luxury cookies, such as triple chocolate. Cookies are available individually or in jazz mix packages of six, a dozen and even a hundred (boxes of up to 300 cookies are available for catering). The new spot also offers cookie cakes, brownies, ice cream and ice cream sandwiches - all of which are available for delivery. Insomnia cookies have so far earned good reviews, with a four-star rating of nine reviews on Yelp. It's not too soft or too hard, it's quite crisp outside and chewed inside, wrote Hasith S, who was among the first Yelpers to review the new spot on February 5. Definitely a welcome addition to the financial area. Intrigued? check it out for yourself . Insomnia cookies are open from 9 a.m.–3.m. on weekdays and 11 a.m.–3.m on weekends.
